St Andrew's Presbyterian Church is in Exeter Road, Bournemouth. It is a handsome edifice, seating 700 persons. Its tower and spire are built of terra-cotta and red brick. The rose window at its north end is much admired. The church was opened in 1888. It is here seen from the Public Gardens.

This is part of Bournemouth. But we are just out of it, & have to take trams down. There are many lovely walks & drives, though they are cutting down the Pines & sad, and spoiling the place by so much building. I hope you are keeping well.
